What might the future school experience be like in the year 2032?

This is the question that has we've used to engage students, parents, and educators in a conversation about the future school experience as part of a crowdsourcing and visualization project.